Vivid Description of the Recent Bat tle Near Apia.

Tamasese's Forces Routed and Drivet Into the Sea.

walian Legislators Found Gality of Crosk-edness — Australian Misers on a Strike—A Subsidy Refused.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Steamer Zealandla, which arrived here from Sydney and Auctiand today, brings additional information of recent fighting at Samoa between the forces of Tamasese on the one hand and those of Malletoa, the deposed King, on the other, in which Tamasese's men were defeated. A correspondent writes from Apia that the battle-ground was in and around that city and that several weeks before the fighting commenced, Tamasese's forces had built forts and formidable intrenchments which were manned by over 1000 men. September 12th Malletoa's forces charged upon these works, and in less than twe hours Tamasese's men had been driven inter the sea, where they took refuge upon the upon these works, and in less than two hours Tamasese's men had been driven introduced by the sea, where they took retuge upon the reefs and finally got away in boats. During the fight Capt. Bissett, an Englishman living at Matuata, near Apia, was shot and killed. He was not engaged in the battle at all, and the shooting is believed to have been accidental. The largest fort was at Matafagatile, one and a half miles from Apia. This fort with others was successfully carried by the Malletoa party, and the occupants driven into the sea.

The correspondent states that Tamasese is now at Mulimu under protection of German soldiers. Before the attack was made the Malletoa party sent word to the foreign consul, asking if they desired to have neutral territory established for their safety. The British and United States consuls were agreeable to this arrangement, but it is understood that the German Unnsul refused to have neutral territory established. The correspondent claims that the reason for this refusal was that Tamasese and his followers would have been deprived of the shelter of the guns on the German warship Adler if neutral territory had been established. Tamasese' falls is flying at Mulliuun, and it is believed that the Malletoa party will attack that place if the flag is not taken down.

The correspondent does not state how many lives were lost during the fight, but other advices place the number at 400. The wounded were cared for by British and American residents, and assistance was also rendered by the surgeon of the United States war ship Adams, now at Apia.

The Zealandia also brings information from Honoinlu that the Supreme Court of Hawaii has rendered a decision in the case of the heirs of Ah Ki against the trustees appointed by the Legislature to pay off the ladebtedness of King Kalakaua. Ah Ki was the Chinaman who paid Kalakaua $71,000 for the exclusive privilege of the traffic in opium, and, upon the death of Ah Ki, his heirs made a demand upon the trustees for the refunding of this amount. The trustees for the refunded to pay it and the heirs commenced a suit. The Supreme Court has decided that the trustees must refund the money.

THE AUSTRALIAN MINERS' STRIKE It is learned that the great coal mine strike at Newcastle was due to a dema strike at Newcastle was due to a demand by the proprietors that the miners should work earthbands between the seams of coal for nothing. The men refused, and struck without awaiting proposals of the proprietors for a settlement. The effects of the strike have been felt in various departments of industry. Thousands of wharf laborers in the various colonies have been thrown out of employment by the stoppage of steam traffic. Many industries of the principal colonial towns have contracted their operations. Great efforts are being made to obtain coal from other sources. The southern and western collieries have not taken part in the strike. Two small collieries at Newcastle are being worked by non-union men, and others are being brought there. No violence has occurred. At last advices there were no signs of yielding on either side.

THE THOMPSON GIRLS.

informed the Captain of the poor woman's condition.

The girl was brought into the private office. By this time she had sobered up to a certain extent, and the Captain gave her a lecture that may do her some good. She was told that she would be allowed to go to her mother, but she was warned to keep out of bad company. The Captain also told her that if ever his officers had occasion to bring her in again he would send her to the reform school in San Francisco, or turn her over to "Mother" Watson, who, by the way, is paid by the city to be at the police station and look after such cases.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning the officers conducted the child to her mother. On taking her into the sick woman's room a scene that would have brought tears to the eyes of the most hardened was witnessed. The girl did not seem to be at all put out. She informed her mother that it was her own fault, and was inclined to be impudent, but the officers checked her and she was sent to her room.

Mrs. Thompson is a well-to-do widow, and has done all in her power to keep her daughters from going to the bad, but sickness has prevented the care and attention that should have been given them, and as near as can be learned at present, they are in a fair way towards joining the great army.

near as can be learned at present, they are in a fair way towards joining the great army.

The 18-year-old girl has some money of her own, and she has taken rooms in a well-known lodging-house on Main street, where she has surrounded herself by two or three girls, and little June, who was put in long dresses only a few weeks ago, spends a great deal of her time in this place.

The young bloods who are assisting in leading this young girl astray should read the following section from the Penal Code:

"Section 286. Every person who inveigles or entices any unmarried female, of previous chaste chiaracter, under the age of 18 years, into any house of ill-fame or of assignation, or elsewhere, for the purpose of prostitution; . . and every person who aids or assists in such inveiglement or entement; and every person who, by any false pretenses or false representation, or other fraudulent means, procures any female, . . is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, orby imprisonment in the County Jall not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding 1000, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Now, there are lots of people of the prisonment."

Now, there are lots of people of the above description in Los Angeles, and as reform is being worked in the police department, it might be well for the officers to gather in a few of these cattle. Every officer in the city knows who they are an where to find them, and there is no excuss for them being at large.

TIE AND TRACK.

A Pleasant Episode in the Santa Fe

There was nothing of importance going on in rallroad circles yesterday, with the exception of a little surprise party in the Santa Fé offi e. A few days ago, William Doner, Col. Williamson Dann's chief clerk was promoted and will be sent to San Bernardino. His fellow clerks decided to make him a farewell present, and yester-day afternoon they gathered around the popular young man and gave him a compopular young man and gave him a com-plete surprise when they presented him with a handsome silver service. It was appropriately engraved, and cost quite a large sum of money. Several neat speeches were made, and the young man was wished all kinds of success in his new field. He leaves for San Bernardino tomorrow. Yesterday the Santa Fé nepole received a

M. Scott, a promine P. M. Scott, a prominent 'real-estate man, who has just returned from a trip east, was seen by a Times man yesterday. Mr. Scott has spent a good deal of time investigating the probable boom this winter, and he is confident that the outlook is better than ever before. He said: "I learned during my visit that a great many people will be out here during the winter. The yellow fever in the South will keep people away from that section, and they will come to this country. But I am surprised that our people have given up advertising. It is just as mecessary to advertise now as it ever was—in fact, more so, for the northern people are advertising like blazes, and we must keep up with them. They have made up their minds to gobble the whole thing, and they will do it if we are not careful. Advertising has made Southern California, and we must not let our people go to sleep." nent 'real-estate man

The depots are crowded with freight at the present time. The merchants are preparing for a big trade this winter. The whole community seems to have made up its mind to entertain a number of people during the coming winter, and all are preparing for them.

THE JUROR'S LOT.

An Experience Phat Shows It to Be Not a Happy One. Albert Jacobs of the New York Ciothing Company put in a serious complaint yester-day about the treatment that he and some Company put in a serious complaint yesterday about the treatment that he and some fellow merchants who were caught on a jury in a justice court the other day sustained. He said that the jury was held from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., the streater part of the time being locked up in a little stuffy jury room, and they were not allowed anything to eat for the whole time. They frequently appealed to the officer in charge for something to sustain themselves through the ordeal, or to be discharged, but the only consolation they got was to have the door slammed in their faces and locked. One member of the jury actually fainted from fatigue and exhaustion. The case which they were held to decide was a trivial neighborhood quarrel, in which a woman had turned a hose on a man, and the man in retailation had dashed a bucket of water upon the woman. The jury could not conscientiously make a case of battery out of it, and yet they could not agree, for while eleven were for acquittal, one obstinate fellow held out for conviction, and was neither moved by his own unpleasant situation nor the sufferings of his fellow jurors. Finally, at 10 o'clock p.m., the jury was discharged, and a worse disgusted set of "peers" never filed out of a jury room. It would seem as though such rigorous methods should not be necessary in the administration of justice, and are utterly unwarranted in the treatment of free American cituzens.

HILARIOUS CONDITION.

Taken to the Bedside of Her Suck Mother—A Lecture from the Pelice Captain and a Warning to Certain Young Men.

The Thompson girls are determined to keep themselves before the public. It will be remembered by readers of The TIMEs that quite a row war raised a few weeks ago when the aged mother of the two girls was placed in the Sisters' Hospital, and they exerted themselves to get her out. They blamed their married brother, and said that he was the cause of all their trouble, but he came out with clean hands, and has been taking care of his mother ever since.

Early yesterday morning the youngest girl, who goes by the name of June, was arrested by Officers Bowler and Bowiand, and taken to the police station.

She and her sister, who is only about 18 years of are, June 1814, were found in a room drinking wine with a couple of young bloods. Both girls were forunk, and wen, June reached the most between the foulest language possible to the officers who are rested her.

Col. Irish wound up his remarks by reading from published recommendations of Secretary of State James G. Irish's address, which lasted two hours, he was given three cheers.

FUNNY BISINESS.

J. Mary Ann Brooks as a Democratic Disturber. The curbstone mossbacks are telling a rood story on Sid Lacy, the boss. The other night one of the high-toned Democratic clubs of the city was holding forth in a most loving manner, when the Missouri comedian entered the place and took his seat. Mr. Lacy held down the chair most gracefully, but as soon as the comedian en-tered the room the boys noticed a polar wave playing over Sid's smooth face. He eyed playing over Sid's smooth face. He eyed the laughing comedian, whose initials are J. Mary Ann, as if he expected trouble. Several motions were put and disposed of by Sid, in a nervous manner, which plainly said, "I want to go home," when the comedian rose to his feet, and said: "Mr. President, 1 move you, sir, that the carpet on this floor be taken up and turned over."

This piece of impudence brought the Chair to his feet quicker than a flash, and he fairly roared:

he fairly roared:
"Mr. Chairman, I call the gentleman

"Mr. Chairman, I call the gentleman to—"
A voice: "Mr. Chairman, you are addressing yourself. I call you to order, sir. Sit down!"
Lacy: "I decide that I am in order, and will address myself as much as I please. All of you sit down," and Sid held the wild Missourian level until he got through.
Last Friday night this same comedian created a good deal of trouble in Judge Hutton's courtroom. A club of 40 or 50 Democrats has been meeting in the Judge's room, and some of the boys made up their minds to get them out. The comedian managed to get in and join the club Friday night. He had been instructed to get them out, and he did it in this manner:
Soon after he had taken his seat he jumped up and moved that the club secure a stand and that it adjourn to meet at the stand and nowhere else. The club did not think it could afford to pay for a stand, when the comedian informed the boys that.

Yesterday the Santa Fé people received a carload of lemons from New York. It was on the road only 11 days, which is the fast-est time that has ever been made, and goes to prove that the Santa Fé people have made up their minds to rush freight through faster than any other company.

Stand and nowhere eise. The club did not think it could afford to pay for a stand, when the comedian informed the boys that on the road only 11 days, which is the fast-double the would pay for the stand out of his own pocket. This settled the question, and they include the courtroom again.

Yesterday the stand was procured, when the club suddenly remembered that it would want gas and seats. They rushed to the comedian and wanted to know if he intended to furnish seats and gas. "No, certainly not. I did not agree to that, but if you wil send your secretary to the County Central Committee they will be only too glad to help you out."

The secretary hurried off to the chairman of the committee and spoke his little speech. The chairman heard him through, and politely informed him that they could do nothing, and also that they would have to dispense with his services also. Now, this young man has been drawing a salary of $50 a month from the County Central Committee, and he blames the comedian for his troubles, for if they had not been induced to get out of Judge Hutton's courtroom, he would not have gone to the chairman with a request, and might not have been discharged. That club is about ready to come over to the Republican party in a body.

shaft or blown out a cylinder head. Unfortunately the old engine, which is kept for alternative use, had just been dismantied for repairs. There was nothing for it but to stop the line till the broken piece could be replaced. Superintendent Fowler and his force worked like beavers all night, chartering a machine shop down town and steaming it up to turn out the insignificant little piece required.

The result was that the road was ready to start up at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. But before the wheels had unde a half dozen revolutions the complement of the aforesaid insignificant little piece on the other cut-off valve went to smash like its predecessor. Then Superintendent Fowler and his men had to gird up their iolius and begin repairs afresh. Between 10 and 11 a. u. the last difficulty had been bridged over, and the big engine moved off again as though nothing had happened. The double break was very annoying to the management and something of a disappointment to Temple-street travelers; but it was one of those things that is bound to happen with machinery now and then, and especially with new machinery. When the old engine is overtauled and in readiness for a relay-a break of this kind will not interrunt the operation of the line for 15 minutes. The management don't propose to take any chances in future.

POLICE COMMISSION.

Temple-street Engine Manned

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners was held at the Mayor workman, Mr. Humphreys, Chief Moriarty and Assistant Chief Miles present, Mr. Teed being absent.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, after which was taken up the petition referred to the board from the Council protesting against the erection of a planing mill at the corner of Eighth street and Grand avenue, on the ground that such a structure would be a nuisance and seriously interfere with the comfort of the residents of that locality. The owner of the proposed building appeared before the board and made a statement. He denied that his building whs a nuisance, but, on the contrary, was an improvement to the neighborhood. He said that it really only meant the removal of a mill from Seventh and Olive streets, where it had been, established some time, and against which there had been no complaint. Mr. Mackey of the Board of Education protested on behalf of that body, as they thought he noise would interfere with the school in the neighborhood. After some further debate the petition was granted and permission refused for the mill.

The board recommended to the Council that a contract be drawn with Richard Moloney for two two-wheel hose carts at a cost of 4500 each, from specifications to be given by the Chief Engineer. It was also recommended that $25 additional be allowed on each cart for furnishing it with the necessary paraphernalia in the shape of gongs, lanterns, etc. These carts are aiready completed, but owing it some misunderstanding, no contract was drawn, so that they cannot be accepted until this formality is complied with.

The board, also recommended that a contract be drawn with James S. Nasmith for one four-wheel hose cart at a cost of $600, delivered in Los Angeles.

The matter of the bay windows in the Crandal building, on First street near Fort, was brought up by the Chief Engineer, who said that he considered the matter an evasion of the law, as the whole front of the building is thus con

The usual weekly bills were read and approved.

The board recommended to the Councit that 49 polesy be purchased from W. W. Griggs at a cost of $4 each, the original price being $7.

The Chief called the attention of the board to the fact of members of the department having their families in the engine-houses. He said that it was undesirable, in his opinion, for various reasons, and after some discussion it was ordered that from and after this date it would not be allowed.

The board then adjourned to inspect the lowed.

The board then adjourned to inspect the horses offered for sale for fire purposes.

Next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock was fixed as the time for examining horses tendered for the department, when six will be selected.

A Boy Found
A little boy, apparently about 3½ years of age, was found yesterday by William Wagenback near the Santa Monica road about five miles from town, and brought to the police station, where he was kept until 4 o'clock and then turned over to Mrs. Watson. The little fellow says his name is Albert Melvin. He is of stout build, with white hair and hive eyes, and was dressed in a checked hitt, dark pantaloons and brown hat. He wore no shoes. The parents of the child can find him by applying to Mrs. Watson.

A SWIM.

THE NEW NATATORIUM OPENED LAST NIGHT.

vely Scenes Among the Diving and Spinshing Multitudes — Bathing Trunks in Great Demand—All the Appliances for a First-class Swim

The new Los Angeles Natatorium turned out the carpenters, turned in the water and opened the doors to the public at 7:40 p.m. last night. When they opened the doors they had to dodge back pretty lively to avoid the crowd that was waiting to get in. By 8 p.m. the big tank was full of men and boys jumping, splashing and swimming in the cool water. To those whose only chance for a swim had been a trip to Santa Monica on a Sunday it seemed very nice to walk down Fort street and dive from s walk down Fort street and dive from a springboard into 12 feet of water. While to the boys whose only place of aquatic amusement had been some secluded zanja, the tank, 28x70 feet square, seeined like the Illimitable expanse of the Southern Ocean.

The natatorium, or swimming bath, is an enterprise which fills one of those "long-felt wants," and no mistake. Here, where all Nature smiles serenely and only man is vile, it cannot be denied that it is sometimes a little warm, a trifle dry and perceptibly dusty. Under those circumstances the rivers and streams sought by those who would bathe are found to answer every requirement of shady bank and sandy bed except that they have no water. Bathtubs, to be sure, are to be found in abundance, but a bath-tub is not all that man needs for a swim. He may not need the Hellespont, like Lord Byron, but he wants plenty of room, deep water and good company.

plenty of room, deep water and good company.

Hence the crowd that warmed the hearts of the natatorium managers last night. A good, long, deep, fresh-water swim was such a complete novelty in these parts that every one wanted to be in at the start.

In the corner of the building is a boiler, which is meant to warm the water by means of steam pipes running under it. Last night it did not do much execution, as the water, though by no means cold, was not up to luke warm. It is meant to be kept at about 79° in temperature. The bathers seemed to think it all right, however, except when they ventured under the shower bath.

The tank is 28x70 feet and the bottom slopes gradually and uniformly from two feet deep at one end to twelve feet at the other. All around the Insido runs a rail just above the water level, to which swimmers can hold; so that while giving deep water at one end for diving, it is absolutely safe.

At the deep end are two spring-boards, on water at one end for diving, it is absolutely safe.

At the deep end are two spring-boards, on which the swimmers "teeter" if they want to and dive gracefully into the water. There is also a chute from the gallery above, down which they slide much as they would come down the side of a house, and go into the water with a splash. This chute was not much patronized, though it is smooth and splinterless.

An affair which gave great delight to the ambitious swimmers was a pair of iron rings fastened to two ropes, as usual in gymnasiums. Standing on an upright ladder one would swing himself off into space and letting go would turn a somersault in the air and strike the water as heaven willed. The only thing he had to leok out for was not to dive through some unfortunate swimmer beneath.

About 20 people were in the water at one time, and more would have been accommodated had the bathing-suits held out. As it was, they had to be changed and put on wet, as the newcomers could not wait for them to be dried. The management have now 25 dozen suits coming from Boston, which, added to the 110 they have now, will keep the tank as full of swimmers as it will hold.

Around the tank is a platform to walk up, and at one end a shower bath, where many and at one end a shower bath, where many will keep the tank as full of swimmers as it will hold.

Around the tank is a platform to walk up, and at one end a shower bath, where many tested their nerves and improved their circulation. Back of the platform is the row of dressing rooms, at one end of which are four bathrooms, in which the regular tub bath can be taken. They will be fitted with every luxury of a bathroom.

On top of the dressing rooms runs the gallery for spectators. Here last night many sat comfortably in the chairs, and laughed at the lively scene below. The railing of the gallery was not up, but will be put in place at onc. If business requires, it is intended to build a second tier of dressing rooms, and have on top a gallery to which spectators will be admitted free of charge. At present admission is charged, which entitles to a bath or not, according to choice.

characteristic of this city. Four weeks from its inception it stands by the new City Hall practically completed. Though in rough shape last night, it will be finished completed in a few days, and with flowers, drapery, polished woodwork and fresh, clean swimming water, it will make a pleasant place to while away an hour.

Capitain & Burton, the architects, drew the plans, which seem to fill all the demands of such a structure; and L. J. Kelly & Co, the contractors, made a good and quick job of it. S. K. Haman did the plumbing and gas-fitting in good shape, and Fred Haver built the great bath of brick and lined it with cement. After he found it didn't leak he felt so good that he plunged in and took the first swim of all the thousands that are to follow.

NEIGHBORHOOD QUARREL

A Pistol Brought Into Service but No Bloodshed. There came near being a murder on Ban-ning and Vignes streets last night shortly

It seems that a hard-looking citizen, who has been before the Police Court quite often of late, named H. Geier, who lives on Banof late, named H. Geier, who lives on Banning street, next to a butcher named Peter McMahone, got into a quarrel with Mrs. McMahone, and was abusing the woman in a frightful manner when McMahone rushed out of his house with a pistol in hand. As be neared the quarreling couple, he raised the pistol as if he intended to shoot, but he lowered it when within a few inches of Geier, and began to beat him over the head. Just at this moment Officer Jackson put in an appearance, and placed the two men under arrest. At the police station McMahone was charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, and Geier was required to put up $25 bail to appear as a witness.

After consulting a while, McMahone's ball was fixed at $190, which he gave, and was released. McMahone will have a hearing before Justice Austin tomorrow morning.

The marked success which attended the first concert of the Philharmonic Society last Thursday night, and made it easily the greatest musical event in this city since the National Orec Concerts when he had greatest musical event in this city since the National Opera Company was here, has had the effect of a spontaneous and enthusiastic call for its repetition, at lower prices than the society's regular scale, so as to permit every one in the city, who is at all interested in musical matters, to attend. The directory therefore instruct me to notify you that, while the special concert will interfere somewhat with the regular work on the Christmas programme, and is really contrary to the policy of the society, an exception will be made, and the programme given at the initial concert will be repeated on Friday evening, October 5th, at Turnverein Hall.

A popular rate of 50 and 75 cents has been ordered.

TALMAGE'S SERMONS

A special feature of THE TIMES for a year to come will be the weekly presentation of the sermons of Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, the great American preacher, who fills the Brooklyn Tabernacle every Sunday morning with a vast audience of interested people. Tomorrow's paper will contain the third of the current series of Mr. Talmage's remarkable pulpit orations, and they will thereafter appear in these columns regularly on every Monday morning succeeding the day of delivery.

The great strength and purity, the perfect homeliness, the wenderful beauty, the broad humanity and the deep religious fervor, without bigotry or sectarianism, of these sermons make them attractive and valuable in the highest degree. They are permeated by a thoroughly healthy sentiment, minister to the religious and mental and moral wants of thousands, and we have no doubt will prove highly acceptable to the mass of our readers.

These sermons will also be printed in the WEEKLY MIRROR regularly.

Presidential Campaigns.

The advantage of a Presidential election every four years has very frequently been called in question from the fact that during the active campaign season the country usually experiences somewhat of business stagnation, and that a feeling of unrest and uncertainty prevails to some extent, affecting more or less every department of business and traffic. Furthermore, it is urged that a spirit of political animosity is kindled, and that chicanery and party trickery, engendering corruption, are resorted to in order to secure party success.

But there can be no question, when we once carefully review the situation, but that one of the most powerful and effective agents for the intelligent political education of the sovereign citizen is this same quadrennial campaign.

The voters of the Republic compose not only our native-born citizens, but citizens of every nationality, many who come here unfamiliar with the principles of a republican form of government. There is no better school for them than an active campaign, when all party issues are discuss when the policies of the opposing parties are freely ventilated; when the great questions of the day which underlie our national strength are broadly handled, and all that enters into the political life of a great and prosperous people is freely and intelligently con-

The Chinese Still Come

It is high time that the Democratic President should show he really means what he has said on the subject of Chinese exclusion and give us a bill that will exclude. At present the Chinese are pouring into this State as freely as they ever did.

Formerly the Chinese who wished to come here used to go through a thorough drilling at Hong Kong, so as to be able to answer questions which would be put to them by the customs officers, but now that the habeas corpus mill connected with the Federal courts has been found so convenient, they are not so particular about their lessons, and prefer to learn them after they get here. The latest dodge is very simple. The Chinaman is refused landing when he arrives here by the customs officials. but this is no more than he expects The slave-dealer then sues out a writ of habeas corpus and the coolie is landed. If he could be examined at once no harm would result, as he would certainly be sent back to China. This, however, cannot be done, as there are several ing for similar examination. By the time his turn arrives-say about a year -he knows as much about the country as anybody, and can easily satisfy the courts that he has resided here before. One of the arrivals from China last week stated that he had lived several years in Los Angeles, and was positive it snowed here very heavily for several months each year. In fact he had re imported into Southern California seen snow to the depth of five feet on rom the East by the carload, but the ground here. He is out on habeas nons, also. The Democrats and Pensio

Representative Owen of Indiana, in a recent speech in the House on pensions, exposed the claims of Matson who, in his campaign for the Indiana Governorship, claimed that all legislation of any benefit to the Union soldiers since 1865 has been given them by the Democratic Congress. He claims that 168,000 more pension bills have been granted to soldiers under the adminis tration of the Pension Office by Mr. Black than by his predecessor, Col. Dudley; that 102,000 of these are increases, from $8 to $12 per month; that 10,000 are increases for amputations.

Now, the facts are that most of thes bills were passed under suspension of the rules in the House, and that a sufficient number of Democrats voted against them to have defeated them. It required Republican votes to save these bills and they got them, every one. The Mexican Pension Bill is the only general pension bill which has passed Congress which would have passed if there had been only Democratic members. It should be remembered, however, that two-thirds of the benefic aries of this bill live south of the Ohio River.

WHILE Los Angeles runs no danger of being depopulated by an epidemic of yellow fever such as has devastated Jacksonville, it will do us no harm to heed the rebuke which that city has received for the neglect of sanitation. Many people cannot realize the greater value of a city which is thoroughly cleaned over one in which dirt garbage are allowed to collect until the panic of pestilence opens their eyes. Were it not for the wholesome ocean breezes which sweep over Los Angeles we should undoubtedly have been attacked by many serious epidemics ere this, for we have been very lax in our sanitary arrangements. Let us make up for lost time; clean up and construct a thorough system of sewerage with as little delay as possible.

THE Hon. Roger Q. Mills may be a great statesman, but he is not much of a gentleman in his manners. At New Haven, Ct., a gentleman asked him a polite question and Mills retorted: "Go home and soak your head!" At Brooklyn he responded to an interlocutor who asked; "How about rice and sugar?" with the polite remark: 4. [7]] give you more sugar in a minute than you know what to do with. You don't want no sugar no how; you take your whiskey straight." At Richmond he remarked of the duty on pig-iron: Why the devil don't they pay the workmen the balance of it?" This talk may suit Texas, but it won't be appreciated in the North.

By Telegraph to the Times.

BERIAN, Sept. 29.—[Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] Al-though notice of action has been entered in Berlin Landgricht, the court of firstclass, against the editor of the Deutsch Rundschau, the judicial authorities have not yet decided upon what clause in the Penal Code to proceed, and the Minister of Justice is in a quandary as to whom to prosecute. The manager of the Deutsche Rundschau has surrendered the name of Herr Gesteken of Hamburg as that of the person through whom he obtained the diary of Emperor Frederick. Gesteken has been a professor at Strasburg, and rep-resented the Hanse towns for several years in Berlin, where he became known to Frederick. Afterward he was Hanseatic resident in London, and became a frequent contributor to the English papers and magazines. In recent years he has lived privately in Hamburg. He is a Conserva-tive, with Liberal leanings. He is no enemy of Bismarck, nor is he known to ever have possessed the special confidence of Frederick. The Government suspects a high personage of using Geffeken as an instrument. If the trial threatens to reveal strument. It the trial threatens to reveal the original source Prince Bismarck may hesitate about the proceedings. The Chancellor's outspoken declarations have not tended toward allaying the party strife over the diary. They have rather excited public passion to a fever heat. Nothing else is talked about in places of resort, and furrous quarrels are the frequent result. The press in the discussion of the affair reflects vigorously the party strife. The semiofficial papers do not hesitate to assail the of Frederick, villifying both his

CONFLICTING PRESS OPINIONS. The Kolmissche Zeitung says that the dlary shows him a complacent idealist, rich in beantiful purchased generalities and crude rians for improving the world, but poor in the practical statesman's qualities. The Berlin Post says: At the risk of damaging the memory of Frederick, by lay-ing bare his lamentable weaknesses, that the interests of the Empire required the disclosure that the Crown Prince, far from be ing an active promoter of German unity, formed a serious obstacle to it. The Borsen Courier, an organ of the Liberals, better represents the genuine feeling here in saying: "It excites a lively aston-ishment to see the press assail Emperor Frederick with such scant respect. The Imperor must be revolted at the conduct of a people who are trying to please him by reviling his father. Those who are throwing dirt upon the memory of Frederick must judge William II meanly if they supoose that their criticisms excite in him anything but loathing and contempt."

The Progressist press challenges the accuracy of Bismarck's statements discrediting the diary.

The Freie Sinne Zeitung points out that the Chancellor does not give documentary proof of the correctness of his assertions. It says that the memory of a man who is 74 be at fault in regard years old may be at fault in regard to o urrences of 17 years ago, and that a less written under the fresh impression of the press, concurrent with the tenor of private discussion, do not question the authenticity of the diary. The reason which Prince Bismarck advances against its genulneness are felt to be insincere, and are completely ignored outside of the political world. There is not one man in a thousand who refuses to accept the diary as a faithful record written by Emperor Frederick's own hand. The court diagle avoir to the political world. record written by Emperor Frederick's own hand. The court circles exonerate Empress Victoria of any knowledge of the publication. The stories published in the French papers of a violent quarrel between Empress Victoria and Emperor William, and press Victoria and Emperor William, and that the former fears that sples are set on her movements are certainly false. The Empress lives an utterly retired life. Members of her own circle declare that she does not want Emperor Frederick's name mixed up in the party struggle. The relations between Emperor William and the English court are undoubtedly strained. This was openly shown by the refusal of the Prince of Walas to he present at the Emperor's reopenly shown by the remusal of the color wales to be present at the Emperor's reception in Vienna, but the Empress maintains, as far as possible, a silent neutrality started.

The Diet of Lower Austria today rejected the motion of the Pan-Germanic Deputy, Vergania, that the Diet in its corporate capacity give prominence to the reception of Emperor William. Only the Anti-Semetic members supported the motion. THE VATICAN QUARREL.

The programme for the Emperor's visit o Rome is unsettled. Count you Soms Ponnenwald, German ambassa Ponnenwald, German ambassador to the Quirinal, was summoned to the conference at Fredericksruhe just at the moment of starting to resume his post at Rome. The Vatican is dissatisfied with the neutral result of Prince Bismarck's negotiations with Sig. Erispi and Count Kainoky, and demands formal assurance that the Emperor's visit will not imply a recognition by the German Government that Rome is the capital of the Italian Kingdom. The Cologne Gazette, noticing the reports appearing in the Berlin papers that the journey of Emperor William has been postponed owing to the Vatican difficulty, states that the triple alliance, guarantees to the signers the existing territorial statu quo and therefore recognizes itome as the capital of Italy. The Gazette keeps silent as to the Pope's demand. Probably Bismarck will concede in some form a declaration which will satisfy the Vatican without practically affecting the territerial question.

A FAMINE THREATENED.

The failure of the harvest in Germany is attracting serious attention. There is a poor crop of cereals and potatoes. The price of bread is rapidly rising. Since 4887 rye has advanced 48 marks and wheat 34 marks. In some districts bakers have raised the price of bread 10 pfennings per pound. Herr Richter, in an article in the Liberial Zeitung, calculates that Germany will require 13 000,000 hectolitres of grain to meet the deficiency. The people, he says, must, therefore, demand an immediate dimunition of the duty on cereal import.

New York, Sept. 29.—(By the Associated Press.) Probably never before in the history of the Produce Exchange has such a scene of wild excitement been witnessed in the neighborhood of the building as took plate there after the market closed today. During the day the one subject of conver-sation was "the Hutchinson Chicago wheat corner." The New York market, however, was scarcely affected by the western squeeze, and closed in conformity with Sat-urday's half-holiday at noon at 10 to 12-points higher, than Friday's close. Even points higher than Friday's close. Even this advance was attributed to higher cables from Havre and Hamburg rather than to from Havre and Hamburg rather than to "Old Hutch's" operations. When the gong sounded for the closing of 'Change, about 200 wheat brokers were congregated around the pit selling and buying wheat. Many transactions were intercepted by the gong. Large numbers of brokers were reported to be short on December options, and rather than be caught were inclined to risk an infringement of 'Change rules. No attention was paid to the signal, and bidding went on uninterrupted. The excitement was increased by a telegram from Chicago, stating that "Old Hutch" had threatened to send the December option up to $1.50.

ision of a Land Case Involving Million Dollars-Singular Accident at San Bernardino-Arrangements for the New Fast Trains to the East,

Ey Telegraph to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The great yact race beween the pilot-boat America and the chooner C. H. White, which had its origin in the rivalry of the two boats in the re atta of the Pacific Yacht Club two weeks go, at which time the America won the ace for first-class schooners, took place to tay over a course reaching from an maginary line drawn from Point Lobos to Point Bonita, then out to and around the middle rock of the Farallone Islands and return, a distance of 561/2

The race was for $1000 a side, but was of especial interest to yachtsmen as deciding the superiority of the one style of boat over the other, Capt. Matthew Turner, owner of the America, being the builder of the well-known racing yachts Lurline and Chispa, and the sloop Nellie, while Capt. White is the designer and builder of the yachts Azalene and Vir-ginia. The White is longer all over, nar-rower and slightly less in death than her rower and slightly less in depth than her rower and slightly less in depth than her competitor, but the America possessed the advantage of a superior spread of canvas and the quality of making headway against a heavy sea.

Both vessels for some days prior to the race were being put is racing trim, and to-day, when towed to the starting point, presented a fine sight, with snowy convas and freshly-mainted sides.

day, when towed to the starting point, presented a fine sight, with snowy convas and freshly-painted sides.

The start had been set for 10 a.m., and, by the terms of the challenge the race was to be made within 10 hours' time. The wind at the start was 'very light, which gave rise to the belief that the yachts could not finish within the time limited unless the wind should freshen by noon. 'J. D. Spreckels's yacht, the Lurline, which competed with the Aggle over the same course two years ago, accompanied the yachts today.

The White was first to cross the line outward bound at 10:03:44/s. The Lurline followed at 10:03:44/b. The Lurline followed at 10:03:44/b. The Lurline followed at 10:05:34, the America at 10:09:30/s.

Word was brought to the city by carrierpigeons from time to time as to the progress of the yachts. The White held a slight lead for three hours, when the wind decreased, and the America went ahead.

The middle rock of the Farallones, which was the turning point, was rounded by the America at 2:01 p.m. The White rounded II minutes later.

On the homeward trip the America widened the distance between the boats, and crossed the finishing line at 4:46%. The White crossed at 5:16:27. The Lurine, which had gone around the course in the rear of the racers, crossed the line at 5:26.

Old Judge Thurman Says a Few Words to a Gathering of Admirers-Watterson Repeats His New York Speech at Detroit, E.e. Etc.

New York, Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] About 100,009 people assembled at the Polo grounds tonight to hear speeches by J. G. Blaine and other distinguished as a control of the property of the propert tinguished speakers. The crowd from the very outset inaugurated a set of cheers that outlasted the meeting itself. The decora-tions of-the grand stand and other platforms were on a scale of profusion. Streamers stretched across the roof of Grand The escutcheons of the various States were placed at intervening points along posts, and in the midst of these were huge portraits of Harrison and Morton. The main platforms from which the speakers addres sed the meeting faced Grand street, and on this sat the invited guests of the evening. Half a dozen bands played national airs during the evening. Stereop-ticon views were also exhibited bearing on free trade and protection. Presiden Humphrey of the Harlem Republicen Club welcomed the people from the main stand, while others were performing the same office and introducing the speakers at other stands about the grounds. He introduced J. B. Foraker, who addressed the people. Before he had finished there were cries of "Blaine! here comes Blaine!" and that gentleman appeared on the platform. A scene of indescribable enthusiasm followed. Cannows were fired, recleats hurst. lowed. Cannons were fired, rockets burst in the air, the band struck up "Hail to the

He beyan his address by commending Gen. Harrison's "remarkable ability in condensing the whole argument within the dimension of a provert." The same had been true of Franklin and of Lincoln. Gen. Harrison's reference to dogmatic freetraders as "students of maxims and not of markets," had exposed in a sentence the fallacy of their economic creed. Blaine then went into history, and his speech dealt entirely with the record of high tariff and low tariff and the relative effects of each upon the country—the various tariff measures from the first, in 1759, down to the issues of 1844 between Clay and Polk, after which the free-trader, Robert J. Walker of Mississippi, became Secretary of the Treasury, and under whom the protective tariff of 1846 went down and the free-trade tariff of 1844 was placed on the statute books. Jefferson's messages to Congress in which he discussed the several methods of disposing of the surplus were clied in comparison with the utterances of Cleveland on the same subject, and at each juncture of national history where tariff issues were involved, Blaine instituted comparisons between the Democrats of then and now, and held up the disastrous results of 1837 as a warning that the tariff should not then have been lowered, as it was, nor should it now be. Blaine's address was designed to present historical tariff situations analogous to the present, and in each case his deductions were strongly in favor of the election sent historical tariff situations analogous to the present, and in each case his deduc-tions were strongly in favor of the election of Harrison and the defeat of Democratic endeavors.

HONORING HARRISON.

Three Uniformed Delegations Visit the Next President. INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 29.—[By the Asso-ciated Press.] The first of the several vis-iting delegations to arrive today came from Cleveland, O., between 600 and 700 strong. Although small in number, it was the best ned and one of the finest looking lelegations of the hundreds that have vis ited Gen. Harrison. In it were 200 veterans commanded by Gen. James G. Barnett. They were known as the "Harrison Boys in Blue," and wore the historical cane coats in Blue," and wore the historical cape coats of 1861. The Central German Club, 200 in number, the John A. Logan Club, the Harrison and Morton Club and the Fremont Guards completed the handsome delegation. The Fremont Guards wore striking blue continental uniforms. Each carried a log-cabin torch, being a miniature house constructed of colored glass. The Harrison and Morton Club carried large battle axes with "H" inscribed on the blade. Among the prominent gentlemen accompanying the delegation was Hos. Amos Townsend and Gen. Ed Myers. At noon a delegation of 200 students from the State Normal School at Normal, Ill., arrived. There were 70 young ledies in the delegation was the delegation was the delegation which the says: "I would consider it a shame and a disgrace to aid the unloyal free-trade Democratic party by voting with the Prohibitionists. There were 70 young ladies in the delegation wearing jaunty felt hats of all colors, and on one shoulder rosettes of red, white and blue ribbons, and on the other a handsome badge.

The delegations arrived at noon and marched to University Park. Gen. Harrison's appearance was greeted by a storm of cheers. Gen. Harrison addressed the visitors at some length. The delegation from Chicago did not arrive until 4 o'clock. They numbered about 1000 voters. The organizations represented were the First Veterans' Club of 1840, 50 members; John A. Logan Club, Twelfth Ward Republican Club and the Second Regiment Band of 40 pieces. They were met at the depot by the veterans of the Harrison and Morton Regiment of Indianapolis and 200 uniformed members of the Columbia Club, with half a dozen drum corps and bands. Of all the numerous delegations that have visited the city, perhaps none were honored with larger or more enthusiastic escorts. The streets along the route were lined with entusiastic spectators. At University Park a large crowd, including many of the Cleveland visitors, awaited them. Just before reaching the park the home escort clubs opened ranks, and as the Chicago boys marched through cheering, the scene was most animating. Judge John W. Green, in the absence of Mayor Roche, delivered a congratulatory address on behalf of the delegation at large, followed by Dr. D. A. Smith, who spoke for the Tippecanoe veterans. After the cheering had subsided, Gen. Harrison made a response.

As Gen. Harrison was proceeding homeward, and reached the corner of Universisy Park and Fremont street, he unexpectedly encountered his third and last delegation of the day. Thirty little girls, ranging from 4 to 12 years, each arrayed in a handsome uniform of red, white and blue, were drawn up in military line on the sidewalk. As the General approached, little Annie I. Dynes, their captain, addressing him, said: "General Harrison, I take pleasure in introducing to you these children of the South Side, whose parents are workingmen and women, and who desire the success of the Republican party, the true friends of workingmen, women and children, everywhere." Then they gave cheers for Gen. Harrison, who responded briefly to this unique delegation.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Interesting Meeting at the Hanna College Yesterday. A pleasant meeting of the King's Daugh-ters was held at the Los Angeles College yesterday afternoon, at which plans of work were discussed by the "Benevolent Ten," and the duties of the "Social Ten" were considered. Mrs. C. C. Allen, president of considered. Mrs. C. C. Allen, president of the "Whatsoever Ten," suggested that the effort be made to draw in the children and organize them as "The Star of Bethlehem Ten," which suggestion was most heartily in torsed by those present. A paper was read by the president upon the necessity of personal consecration and diligent service "In His Name." Quite a number of new members were added, and much interest manifested in the work of the order.

A unanimous vote of thanks was returned by the members present to Prof. Hanns of the Los Angeles College for so kindly throwing open his doors to the organization for its meetings. It was, however, voted that the offer of Rev. Dr. Cautine of the Fort-street Methodist Church, which placed the church parlors at the disposal of the King's Daughters for their semi-monthly meetings, be accepted, the rooms being more centrally located and more convenient to the majority of members. The meeting then adjourned for two weeks, the next meeting to be held at the Fort-street Methodist Church.

There is something very taking in the frank, open, positive, stand-and-eliver character of the following circular sent to Federal office-holders in Dakota:

Dear Sent to Federal office-holders in Dakota:

The postoffice is now located on the east side of Fort street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. The building is owned by Victor Dol, and was erected especially to meet the needs of a postoffice. It is two stories high in front, and covers a large area of recound. The Government has lessed of ground. The Government has leased the lower story for five years, by which time the new Government building may be fi nished if Harrison is elected and

ALL GOES WELL.

Yesterday morning the big safe was moved out and then down to the new quarters, and inroughout the day furniture, empty mail sacks and other postoffice brid were steadily carted away. Finally, at 4 o'clock, the little windows, where so many have stood to get their long-expected letters, were shut down for the last time, letters, were shot down for the last time, the receiving boxes were nailed shut so that no more letters could be maned, and the Hellman building stood mute and silent after its long career or busy life.

Inside all was bustle and energy. The letter boxes were empided into some sacks, the newspaper baskets into others, the mail pouches were locked up, and all the impedimenta of the office was tumbled up the civator and into the wagous waiting on New High street. From there they were whirled down town and cumped on of Victor Dol's new building.

Here the new cases and letter-boxes were all ready, and what furniture there was had all ready, and what furniture there was had been already moved. So they wheeled the sorting cases into place like great batteries before the intentiments of mail sacks, and went to we k as if they had been there for years. Even withing was moved in two hours, and at 6:39 the letters were distributed in the brand new boxes.

Toug: they will be busy inside getting everything in shape, and by night time the tired clerks can lounge houeward a couple of miles knowing that everything will be in spick-and-span trim for opening, the regular business on Monday morning.

To enter the new building is like drawing a long breath to those who have been used to the cramped and inconvenient quarters set behind. The whole front of the building is open, and facing the park across the way is the long facade of of polished redwood, surmounted by glass. Along the front are ranged the eight delivery windows, five for gentlemen and three for ladies. It seems as if these should accommodate all the visitors next wister, but it is likely the meiancholy lines will be seen at is likely the melancholy lines will be seen as usual.

Going along the north side are seen the three carriers and the package-window, and beyond them are the long row of boxes, finished with gilded fronts. There are in all about 3000 boxes, as against 1000 in the old postoffice. Those from 1 to 2300 are on the north side, where the rows of boxes make a large ell. At the end are the drop-boxes for mailing letters. On the south side are the two stamp windows and the registry and money-order departments. Beyond these are pleasant rooms for the postmaster and assistant postmaster. Here also are the large new boxes numbered up to $2.00.

Down the south side of the building time an alley from Spring to Fort streets & down this the teams will bling and lake away the mails.

opens into the building, and an iron tran-way leads into the main room with one branch to the distributing and one to the branch to the distributing and one to the mailing department.

The superintendent of the mailing department is W. P. Bowen, and P. A. Blake is the chief mailing clerk. When the letters are dropped into the boxes they are collected and stamped, after which they are sorted into little pigeon holes according to their destination. Being the dinto bundles and labled, they are dropped into the right one of 21 different pouches, and when the time comes the latter is sent to the mail train. The newspapers are similarly distributed among 150 different mail sucks.

When mail arrives it is put on a flat-car and trundled along the tramway to the distributing department, over which T. E. Burns presides. Here it is sorted out into boxes for each carrier on each section of the distributing windows. The 34 carriers sides are large and convenient the money order and registered At the sides are large and convenient rooms for the money erder and registered letter departments. There is also Superintendent Bowen's rooms, where, through a big door, the newspapers come in bulk to be mailed, and are weighed on a platform scale by the pound. In front, behind the delivery windows, is a large spen space, which will be easily utilized by the 50 clerks and 34 carriers who now are imployed.

It seems pleasant to find that the postplice, so long cramped and stinted, is at last allowed more roomy quarters, and a force of clerks sufficient to accommodate the needs of the public. If they will only keep fresh pens and ink at the public writing-tables, little will remain to be desired. The public, after their pleasant walk to get their mail, will get it promptly, with every convenience and courtesy, at the best postoffice west of the Rocky Mountains.

How Tin-horn Democrats Propose to Repeat. "Hello, old man, what are you doing round those graves?"
"Nuthin'."

"But why are you writing in that book every time you strike an ancient grave?" "That's my business, an' I don't want ye to ask me any more questions, young fel-

"When I see a suspicious-looking character, like you, dodging about from grave to grave, as you have been doing for the past few hours. I consider it my duty to look into the matter a little, and if you are not taking these names down for nothing, and I propose to get at the bottom of the thing." At this moment the party first addressed turned pale, and quicker than a flash he Jumped over a grave and fairly flew yor the gate that leads out of Evergreen Cemetery. The above conversation took place, some days ago in Evergreen Cemetery, between a well-known gentleman and a hard-looking citizen. The hard-looking citizen held a notebook in his lett hand, and walked from grave to grave. Whenever he struck a name that seemed to suit him, he was noticed to write it down in the notebook. The gentleman watched him for a while, when he accosted him with the above result. The gentleman informed a Tibes reporter was detailed to investigate the matter.

He has spent some days digging up any points that might throw light on the mystery, and is confident that he has sifted the matter to the bottom.

In the first place he discovered that Evergreen Cemetery is not the only graveyard

In the first place he discovered that Ever-green Cemetery is not the only graveyard in the county that is being canvassed by tough-looking citizens, who carry note-books and write down dead men's names. Every cemetery in the city is in charge of from two to three of these queer creatures and they are all working most industriously from early morn until late in the afternous, or as long as they can see to read the names on the tombstones.

They have been at work about two weeks and as near as can be judged several hun dred names have been copied from the The next step in the investigation was to

The next step in the investigation was to learn the reason for such strange conduct. The men are well paid for what they are doing, for ithey are as cclose-mouthed as oysters and will have nothing to do with anyone who seems desirous of paying them for information regarding their work.

But a close investigation of the matter has proverbeyond a reasonable doubt that they are Democrats and that they are in the pay of a certain clique in this city who are anxious to follow in the footsteps of the "Blind Boss" of San Francisco.

Every night between 6 and 8 o'clock; these disturbers of the dead march quietly into the city and turn a list of the names they have secured during the day over to the tim-horn Democrats who have employed them.

have secured during the day over to the tin-horn Democrats who have employed them.

"What does all this mean?" the reader will ask. The question can be answered by any one who has ever worked with or watched San Francisco politicians. The Republican party is much stronger in this county than the Democratic, and the Democratic have made up their minds to carry the election if such a thing is possible.

But they can't win in November until they have the votes—the most ignorant Democrat in the unwashed ranks knows that—and they have inadeup their minds to get votes by hook or by crook.

Now, the tin-horn Democrats of this city, who have a great ionging? "Decome bosses, have arranged to bring a lot of repeaters down here, and they have to have names for these corrupt cattle, and the graveyards must furnish these names.

It is yet time for the Republican County Central Committee to head these fellows off, but they will have to act at once, and they will have to nse great caution or they will be knocked out on election day, for they have a hardened set of sinners to contend with, and the sharpest men in the Republican party will have to be put forward.

In command of his t.oo. of cavaity he was for years in the heart of the Apache country, where one outoreak was no sooner quelled than another was under way, and he and his men were almost constantly in the field. He was born in Ohio, and enlisted as a serreant in the Ninth Indiana Volunters, at the beginning of the war, and served with distinction throughout the war, rising to the rank of Colonel. They Bold Up an Employe of the Tempic-street Road.

Harry Habicht, an employé of the Tem-le-street Cable Railway Company, who vas engaged with a party in making re pairs Friday night, started down town about 11 o'clock to take a casting. When near the corner of Temple street and Beaudry avenue, he was halted by three men with clubs in their hands, who ordered him to stand and deliver. "You've got the wrong man this time," Habicht said, laughing, "I keep my funds in the bank." When the footpads discovered that they had caught a laborer at his work they were very much disgusted, and became very abusive, threatening to do Habicht some bodily injury for mere ugliness. Habicht got a good look at one of the fellows, and thinks he would know nim if he should see him again.

The same night, and about half an hour before this episode, a man was stopped on Pearl street near Temple, presumably by the same gang, and robbed of all the loose change in his pocket and his revolver. Beaudry avenue, he was halted by three

PEGGY AND LITTLE BOY BLUE IN SUNSET LAND-CHAPTER V.

Peggy Asleep on the Hillside-The Dream Children Watch Her-The Meadowland-Jack and His Beanstalk-Beautiful Sunset Land.

Gaily and with happy hearts Peggy and Little Boy Blue went back to their boat of pearl lying upon' the river. The ripples flowing about rocked it gently, and with every movement the silver bells tinkled softly, sending out a musical murmur that was pleasant to hear. Little Boy Blue first jumped into the boat and emptied his hat filled with the golden dollars into a pearlcovered chest, and then he took Peggy's hat, and, putting it carefully down, he reached his hand to her and she leaped lightly in. Then he showed her a box beneath her plush-covered seat, all thick-set with pearls and emeralds, and into this she emptied her gold, and with a silver key she locked it fast, then took her seat beneath the shining then took her seat beneath the shining canopy, while Little Boy Blue with his slender oar pushed the boat out into the rippling stream, which bore them gently back again to the sea.

Little Hop O' My Thumb stood upon the bank with a most pleasart smile upon his face, while he waved his tiny hat to them, and wished them a pleasant ionner.

Very lovely were the waving palms upon the green banks, and beautiful the orange orchards, yellow with their ripened fruit, and lovely the great vineyards which stretched away, far their aver good deep heavy with vineyards which stretched away, far as their eyes could see, heavy with their clusters of purple grapes.

"I am sure." said Peggy, "this land is beautiful enough for me, and I wonder if Sunset Land can be fairer or brighter with flowers."

"O this is a part of Sunset Land," said Little Boy Blue, and I am only in search of the gates of gold which lie in the West, and which open so wide when the sun goes down so that the light of that beautiful land shines so warm and bright upon the sea, turn-when the sun goes down so that the light of that beautiful land shines so warm and bright upon the sea, turning all its waters to gold and lighting all the clouds in the west with its beauty.

There was just a delicious breeze blowing, and the bird spread his wings and the boat flew over the water straight on to the west.

"How far away are you going to sail?" asked Peggy as the boat rushed over the sea like a bird skimming above the wave.

Only to the gates of the Sunset Land, and soon we shall see their glimmer upon the sea and the glory of their beautiful light in the west. It is in this Sunset Land that the zoll, is hide themselves, and come guily out laden with perfume, which they scatter round as the day grows dim. And here whole crowns of beautiful stars are hidden, and the dream children have their palaces filled with the richest treasures. Then Little Boy Blue sang:
"Or ed eram children with your pure white Then Little Boy Blue sang:
O ye dream children with your pure white wings,

And hair so golden and with eyes so blue,
Your full arms laden with such lovely things.
Your touch as soft as is the summer's dew,
We're floating onward down the silent tide,
To sunset gates that soon shall open wide."

"There, I really think I see one of those darling dream children that you've been singing about," exclaimed Peggy starting up suddenly in the boat and pointing her finger towards boat and pointing her linger towards the west.

Little Boy Blue stopped singing and looked away over the blue sea, and there he saw just a little white cloud above a long narrow line of light that was shining in the distance.

No, said Little Boy Blue, we are not quite near enough to Sunset Land to see them yet, but it will not be long, for we have sailed so swiftly we are almost there. I wish you would sing me just one more song, Peggy, before the gates of the Sunset open for us in the West.

Peggy smiled one of her sweetest smiles, and tooked up to Little Boy Blue with such a glad light in her eyes that he felt his heart grow happier for It, and he leaned upon his oars in the

it, and he leaned upon his oars in the fullness of content. Then Peggy sang: Little dream children, O, I will find you

O, I will find you, Shatting my eyes while sleep kisses their ilds,
O, take me and hold me,
With sweet fancies enfold me.
Little dream children, while sleep kisses my lids.

Gates of the sunset, O, we will find you, Your pillars of gold and curtains of light, And zophyrs shall greet us, Fair islands shall meet us, As we sail where the gold of the summit is bright.

Just then there fell a golden gleam upon the water, and in the west, where it had been so blue, great golden clouds were gathering, piled up like shining peaks, or spread out like a caim, bright lake within the west. Under these clouds they sailed till they came to where the blue waters of the ocean seemed to have turned to molten gold. Beyond them lay an island green and fair, where waved the stately palms and the long and drooping leaves of the banana sheltered its golden fruit. Great vineyards covered the land, and little elves, with wings, pressed the juice of the grapes into silver cups and then held them to their lips. Here the bulbul sang in the trees his most musical notes, and the robins twittered among the boughs, and running brooks tinkled amid the grass. The yellow poppies grew upon the hillsides, and the golden sunflower turned its face to the west. As they touched the shores of the island Little Boy Blue cast his silver anchor into the tide, and hand in hand they stepped ashore. Peggy looked up and saw that all the mountain tops were tipped with gold, and all the sea was as golden as the sunset clouds above her head. All the breezes that blew were full of the breath of the flowers. And there were the lovely palaces where the dream children stayed, and where sleep walked in her robes of white, and rosy-cheeked Health strayed lightly among the flowers. And there on the banks of a beautiful stream fed a great, gentie-eyed cow, chewing her cud, and the children gathered about the man who was sitting upon a three-legged stool and who was milking her, glad of every white drop of milk that fell into his bucket.

Little Boy Blue, in answer to a question from Peggy, told her that it was milk, and rich with yellow cream.

And there upon the hillside was the funniest house, built in the shape of a great sibe; and there were dozens of happy children about it, and Little Boy Blue told Peggy it was the house of the "old woman who hved in her shoe." Just then she came out, and Peggy saw a lovely woman, with soft, shining, silver hair, and with cheeks upon which there was a touch of sunsetred, very pleasant indeed to look at.

Peggy saw a lovely woman, with soft, shining, silver hair, and with cheeks upon which there was a touch of sunsetred, very pleasant indeed to look at.

And here was another person that Peggy was delighted to see—no less than Jack, who had climbed his wonderful beanstalk, the top of which rested upon a high hill in Sunset Land, and the bean pods were yellow as gold, and, tasting them, Peggy found them sweet as fresh honey to her taste. And there, too, was the beautiful little wile of Peter Peter, the Pumpkin Eater, who had escaped from the pumpkin shell where she had been imprisoned, and found her way to the lovely land of the sunset. She came and took—Peggy by the hand and led her through the soft and flowery meadows where Little Bo—Peep had kept her sheep and up to a hill that was warm with the sweet glow, and here she bade her sit down and rest, which she did. Then all the little dream children came out and fanned her with their wings and she fell asleep, and the stars came out, and the sunset gates closed behind her, and the breath of the orange and pineapple were about her as she lay there in her happy rest.

I have not many letters from the children this week—only two. I hope my little friends will not forget me. I have finished today the story of Peggy and Little Boy Blue, and now there will be room for lots of letters from my young friends. Here is one from a little friend which was held for postage at the postoffice, and I did not get it until it was too late for last Sunday's TIMES. I am sorry, for it is a very pleasant letter and I fear my little friend has been disappointed in not seeing it before. But it takes a two-cent stamp for letters to reach us by the postman.

I also like the story of Joaquin Murietta. He worked for a year in my grandpa's gold mine, after he was a robber, but grandpa did not know it was Joaquin till afterward. After he was killed, grandpa and Uncle Beaumont saw his head in alcohol. I feel sorry for him, being driven from home so many times, and turning into a robber; but he ought not to have killed so many people. He did not obey the golden rule.

Speaking of the mine makes me think of specimens.

I wonder if the little boy who wrote from Arizona is making a collection.

I am.

I went over to Santa Monica on my birthday in July, when I was 10 years old. A little friend named Harry and his mother met us at the depot and we had lunch together on the sands. I did not get many shells there, for there are not many now; but I had a good time. I saw the fishermen bring in the nets, and they had two baby sharks and a stingaree with the other fish.

There is a little boy that has a large collection of agates that he found out here in Bonnie Brae. I like Bonnie Brae as well as that little girl who wrote that nice piece of poetry.

Now, I must close, for I think my letter is long enough for this time.

From your friend,

And here is a letter from a little Log Angeles boy which tells us about a good many things which we like to hear about:

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18, 1888.

Dear Mrs. Otis: I am a little boy just 9 years old. I live in Los Angeles. My papa takes The TIMES and I enjoy reading the little boys' and girls' letters very much. I have never written you a letter before, but I thought the little boys and girls' letters very much. I have never written you might like to read a letter from me. I have just got home from the mountains. I spent all last week up there. And now I will tell you about my trip. I went with Mr. McDuffle up to his mine—the Coca Bill—and had a lovely time. I rode the horses every day. Mr. McDuffle took me away up in the mountains, and I thought I would never get to the top. We walked 12 miles and got back to the camp at 11:30 o'clock. We started at 7 o'clock in the morning. I was so tired that I had to sit down to rest very often. Then Mr. McDuffle took me on his, back and carried me. Mr. McDuffle has four dogs—two puppies and two old dogs. Mr. McDuffle took me out riding on Tuesday, and I took one of the pups with me, and he lay as still as a mouse. On our way home, Mr. McDuffle stopped to see a friend of his, who had five goats, four sheep and one ram. Mr. McDuffle stopped to see a friend of his, who had five goats, four sheep and one ram. As I was going to the pump for a drink, the old ram ran up, and hit me a terrible blow in the side and knocked me down. I screamed, and the man came running out of the house, and picked up a great big rock and threw it at the ram, and knocked him down. And, after he got him down, he threw the rock at him, and knocked three of his teeth out. I could tell lots more about the mountains, but I am too tired. I was very glad to get home and see my dear papa and mamma, as I had never been away from them before. Mr. Birdsall took us, the choir boys, to Santa Monica yesterday to a picnie; and today I have been out all day watching the Odd Fellows. In my next letter will tell you about our Band of Hope, and lots of other things in Los Angeles, Yours truly,

Yours truly,

I hope my young correspondent will write again, for we shall be glad to hear all the things he has to tell us.

ome Hints for House-furnishing Hall Floors-Rugs and Portieres A Floor Oiled Is a Floor Spoiled Avoid Heavily-tufted Upholster

I have received a very pleasant let-ter from a correspondent in Pasadena, which represents the difficulties of so many of our new-comers from the East, with its widely different needs and climate, that I propose to give the letter entire in our column, and then answer its queries to the best of my ability, trusting that my friend may find something helpful in my sugges

PASADENA, Sept. 27, 1888.

My Dear "Sunshiny" Friend: For so you seem to me, indeed, after a year's perusal of your weekly column, which I learned to look for while living back in the "frozen East," as a child his ex-tra "Sunday dinner."

After a year's daily enticement through the columns of THE TIMES, we have come here, bringing with usno, having sold our lares et penates at auction, and have, we trust, located auction, and have, we trust, located for life in this beautiful city. Though not yet so aged but that my babies play about my knees, I felt quite wise from the accumulated observation of house and home keeping, and would not have hesitated at the most unparalleled generosity in the way of advice to the young and inexperienced house-keeper.

We have bought a lot here, and are building an unpretentions, but artistic story-and-a-half cottage, and shall feel almost like a newly-married couple when we are "settled" in this new city, when we are "settled" in this new city, and in a new house, with everything except our piano, books and pictures, also "spickspan." But, alas! the climate, and I should presume the modes of living, everything are so different from New York State that I know not what to buy.

Were I at home, I should hasten for

Were I at home, I should hasten for advice to the correspondent's column of our Household Department, and in a short time sally forth to buy, primed with the condensed counsel of the many who are ready to come kindly, through this source, to the rescue of the ignorant. After we are "at home," it is to be presumed that the ladies of this hospitable city will, many of them, at least, by calling, give me an opportunity to study domestic aesthetics, as exemplified in California homes. But then it will be too late to learn to buy wisely So what can I do? I have even thought of the desperate expedient of arming myself can I do? I have even thought of the desperate expedient of arming myself as an agent with some one of the many inventions "needed in every household," as a pretext for getting a peep into what I am sure, from the outside, are the many charming homes here.

But finally it has occurred to me that possibly you will depart from your ordinary lines of thought and give counsel, which will be highly appreciated by an entire stranger here. Therefore I have ventured to come to you with a few interrogatives, knowing that my worst fate can only be the wastebasket.

Do people generally here religiously cover every inch of floor with what must soon be dusty and unwholesome, though never so beautiful, carpeting? And if I oil and wax or in some pretty way finish my ordinary Oregon pine floors and use simply ingrain and brussels rugs will our rooms look to the majority bare and unfurnished, as but a few years ago they would have done as the wears ago they would have done majority bare and unturnished, as but a few years ago they would have done to an American? I am resolved to furnish our sleeping-rooms in this way for cleanliness, but will be wise to compromise by covering front hall and parlor floors entire? Can you give me any hints as to the most satisfactory method of treating the flooring. I mean the of treating the flooring; I mean the wood itself? If we could afford the inlaid hard-wood borders or command at eastern prices the ash and walnut flooring, I should know just what to de.

In parlor furniture, do people generally use upholstered furniture, as in a colder climate, or is it daintier and in better taste to study cool effects in willow, etc., as we would do if furnishing a cottage for summer residence only "back East"?

better taste to study cool effects in willow, etc., as we would do if furnishing a cottage for summer residence only "back East"?

And what can I get for portieres that will be serviceable and pretty and not too expensive for a moderate purse? I see on sale largely the chenille hangings which, even under our lowering New York sky, I found faded very badly, and which I should think, with this perpetual sumshine in rooms without blinds (as most of the houses are here), would be the poorest of economy to buy. My motto has always been, the best is the cheapest. How can I apply it in the hangings between hall and parlor and pating room?

Should these both be of the same material? And is there anything really serviceable for a house, all of which is sused all of the time and no part shut away from the children? Is there not something lighter in effect for this summer land which is also durable? I have found there is an accepted "style" in portieres as in dress. Here, is it now the regulation thing to leave lace curtains and door hangings to hang freely, or to drape them back with chains? In my Syracuse homes! thought there was nothing prettief than cream-colored shades under my lace curtains. But because of the bright sunshine and absence of blinds, will I regret not getting a darker olive shade, though not so pretty, for the sake of toning down the light?

These are a few of the many questions I would like to ask some kind-hearted auntie, grown wise in buying through years of living among the cultured of California; but I forbear to trouble you with more lest I discourage your perhaps half-formed impulse to be troubled to reply to this through your columns.

GRACE.

And now, in response to your queries. No, people here do not "religiously your columns.

GRACE.

And now, in response to your queries. No, people here do not minister to health.

If your new cottage home were mine, I will give you a few hints as to how would few house a few hints as to how would few house a few hints as to how would few house and the pro dust-laden carpet does not minister to health.

If your new cottage home were mine, I will give you a few hints as to how I would furnish it.

For the parlor, I would obtain through the agent here a hardwood border of pretty and artistic design, which is manufactured in different widths and sold by the yard, the same as any carpeting. Within that border I would place a large square rug or carpet of colors and design that would harmonize with the border. In this way you will save the edges of your carpet or rug from being eaten by the moths, and find it not difficult to keep the clean. For my parlor I would have some upholstered furniture, but avoid that of a heavy, tufted character. Handsome, decorated wicker chairs are elegant furnishing. There is in the window of a furnishing house on Spring street, this city, a handsome display in this line. Soften the lights of your room by draping China silk over your lace curtains, letting the olor harmonize with the general tone color harmonize with the general tone of the room.

For your floors of Oregon pine a hard finish can be bought already prepared of almost any tint you may desire, at any large painting establishment. This finish is far preferable to an oiled and waxed floor, in that the dust does not adhere to it, and it is durable and easily kept clean, beside being elegant in appearance. Very true is the saying, "A floor oiled is a floor spoiled."

For hall use the hard finish for the floor with Japanese wolf and Smyrna rugs. Between the hall and parlor may be used the pretty Japanese bamboo portieres, which are charming for this climate, and artistic in effect.

Portieres which may be used in place of the chenille, are the so-called jute partieres, with Turkish coloring, which are pretty, durable and comparatively inexpensive. These portieres, of course, should hang free.

I was in, not long since, one of the most elegant homes of the State, and in the whole costly and elegantly furnished mansion there was not a single carpet, and yet there was not the slightest suggestion of bareness. The floors were inlaid, and the costly rugs gave it a finish most attractive. But this hard finish of which I speak will make the Oregon pine look as well as if your floors were constructed of the most expensive woods.

Hard-wood carpets are also much in vogue in the East, and they are especially appropriate for a dining-room, coming in pretty patterns. The carpeting is about a yard in width, sells at $1 a yard, and will outlast 20 ordinary carpets.

But I need not suggest more, for my unknown correspondent is, I am sure, a lady of taste and intelligent resources, and she only wants to have her home in harmony with the sunshine and healty of this summer clime.

NOTES. Peach Pie.—A good crust is indispensable for all pies. Line a deep pie plate wich a pretty thick crust, fill it with ripe sliced peaches, sugar well, sprinkle over a little flour or cracker dust, cover with a crust provided with plenty of air vents, and bake in a quick oven. This is the best eaten hot.

water crackers, "hard-tack."

Nastartium Pickles.—The soft green pods or seed vessels of the nastartium also make a spicy pickle, which can be put in with other kinds of pickles to preserve them, or they are nice by themselves. No cooking is required, as the pods are ready when the blossoms are removed, and are dropped into good cider vinegar. They will keep any length of time if placed in bottles well corked up.

Strawberry Blanc Mange.—Put a quart of berries on a dish and sprinkle over them a quarter of a pound of sugar. Let them stand for several hours. Meantime have a blanc mange made of gelatin; sweeten it to taste, and in the juice which has gozed from the berries. Mix thoroughly; put in a mold that has been wet with cold water, and set on the ice until needed for use. Turn out and lay the strawberries about the base.

A Warning.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and ungs than any other. It is probable that every one, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system, and where these germs fall upon suitable scill they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat, and, it allowed to continue their ravages, they extend to the lungs, producing consumption, and to the bead, causing catarth. Now, all this i dangerous, and, if allowed to proceed, wir in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous, and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your airoat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give your mediate relief.

New York, Sept. 29.—The stock market was extremely active and decidedly strong today from the opening to the close, and again everything on the list made material gains for the day. London had some selling orders in the market at the opening, and the first sales were made at irregular changes from the closing figures of last evening, though declines were in a majority and extended to ½ per cent. The temper of the room, however, was bullish and the market became very strong immediately, and the opening prices on most of the list were the lowest of the day. Pacific Mail and New England developed marked activity and strength, Denver and Rio Grande preferred following with a marked advance. Among the specialties there was advance. Slavery, in the proportions that it has now assumed, means, in effect, the approaching destruction of the black population of the inturior of Africa. I come here as a fresh witness or through the blacks dedicted the stable lands of Central Africa, from the north of Nyanza to the south of Tanganyika. Eleven of what I know through my missionaries or through the blacks delivered by me from slavery, and the single with their own eyes in the south of Tanganyika. Eleven of what I know through my insistence of the super-lunders, and the surface of the makes the feets of the super-lunders, but raises this estimate for those regions where they are established in the Slavery and the surface of the makes the feets of the super-lunders, but raises this estimate for those regions where they are established in the Slavery and the surface of the makes the feets of the feet of the super-lunders, but raises this estimate for those regions where they are established in the Slavery of the province of Manyuema, which at the limit of the death of Living of the province of Manyuema, which a which point to the rapid extinction of the race. They tell me, particularly, of the province of Manyuema, which, at the time of the death of Livingstone, was the richest in ivory and population, and which the slave-hunters have now reduced to a desert, seizing the ivory, and reducing the inhabitants to slavery in order that they may carry the ivory to the coast, after which they would be sold. The contempt for human life engendered by such examples as these, and by the passions of the slave-hunters, is so great that you can imagine nothing more horrible. If this state of things continues, the heart of Africa will be an impenetrable desert in less than 50 years. Nevertheless, it is a wonderful country, where Europeans might live, prosper and procure the necessaries of life.

Africa is divided, really, into three Africa is divided, really, into three Africa is divided, really, into three zbnes—the lowlands, along the seaboard of the Mediterranean; Atlantic and Indian oceans. Advancing toward the interior, there is a raised plateau of about 2000 feet above the sea, and above this first plateau there is a second immense table-land, about 4000 feet high. It is there that fall every year those abundant rains which form the great lakes, and it is from these lakes that flow the vast rivers of the Nile, the Congo, the Niger, the Zambesi and their innumerable affluents. The nature of the soil, the heat the Nile, the Congo, the Niger, the Zambesi and their innumerable affluents. The nature of the soil, the heat of the sun and the abundance of water contribute to make this country one of the richest and most beautiful in the world. It is the native population of this beautiful country which Islam is exterminating at this moment by means of her slave-hunters and by virtue of her doctrine that the blacks are an inferior and cursed race, whom they are at liberty to treat worse than we treat our animals. For over half a century, and while our gaze was fixed upon other countries, Mohammedanism was invading, slowly and silently, with indefatigable perseverance, one-half of Africa. Everywhere the emissaries of Islam prosecute the hunts which feed their commerce. Sometimes the ravishers, concealing themselves along the paths, in the forests, and in the grain-fields, violently carry off the negro women.

Sometimes the ravishers, concealing themselves along the paths, in the forests, and in the grain-fields, violently carry off the negro women and children who may pass by unattended. Things have reached such a pass in the vicinity of the great lakes that now (I quote the words of one of my missionaries) "every woman, every child, that strays ten minutes away from their village, has no certainty of ever returning to it." The impunity is absolute. No negro chief of the small independent tribes, among whom all the country is divided, has the power of repressing this violence. While the slave-trading bands, composed of Arabs and half-castes, and even of coast negroes, go armed to the teeth, the savage population of the highlands of Africa have no other weapons than stones, clubs, and, at best, darts and spears. They are, therefore, incapable of coping with the robbers who attack them and of saving themselves. But it is not only isolated persons they attack. They organize their expeditions as if they were going to war; sometimes alone, sometimes through a refluement of villainy, allied with neighboring tribes, to whom they offer a share of the pillage, and who on the morrow become their victims in their turn.

Thus they fall at night upon defenseless villages, setting lire to the straw

Thus they fall at night upon defense-less villages, setting fire to the straw huts and firing upon every one they meet. The inhabitants try to escape, seeking safety in the woods, in the heart of impenetrable thickets, in the dry beds of rivers in the tall graves. seeking safety in the woods, in the heart of impenetrable thickets, in the dry beds of rivers, in the tall grass of the valleys. They are pursued. The aged, the men who offer resistance, all who cannot be sold in the markets of the interior, are killed; the women and children are seized. All who are captured—men, women and children—are hurried off to some market in the interior. Then commences for them a series of unspeakable miseries. The slaves are on foot. The men who appear the strongest, and whose escape is to be feared, have their hands tied (and sometimes their feet) in such fashion that walking becomes a tortore to them; and on their necks are placed yokes, which attach several of them together. They march all day; at night, when they stop to rest. a few handfuls of raw sorgo are distributed among the captives. This is all their food. Next morning they must start again. But after the sufferings and the privations have weakened a great many. The women and the aged are the first to halt. Then, in order to strike terror into this miserable mass of human beings, their conductors, armed with a wooden-bar to economize powder, approach those who appear to be the most exhausted, and deal them a terrible blow on the nape of the neck. The unfortunate victims utter a cry, and fall to the ground in the convulsions of death. The terrified troop immediately re-

The Mills Bill's Passage Would Alean a Sweeping Reduction.

INew York Mail and Express.

The free-traders insist that the Mills Bill does not reduce the duty below 42.49 per cent. That may be the average rate left after making the proposed changes but that is not the average reduction in the articles that are mentioned in the measure. Some articles are left induculed, some are added to the free list, while others are greatly reduced. The fair way is to ask what the reductions amount to, and it will be found that they are at least 60 per cent. Suppose that they deprive the manufacturers of 50 per cent, of their increased price, it is evident that the wage-earners must suffer to that extent. This will leave the protection on woolens, when domestic competition is allowed for, at about 15 per cent. How will this affect the wage-tarners? It will not cover the differences between the cost of wages here and abroad. A wooldyer in New York receives $1.16 a day, and an English dyer receives $2.20 cents. The difference is 28 per cent. Fifteen pur cent. would not cover it. A New York finisher is paid $1.25 a day; a British finisher receives $2.16 and his British; competitor receives $2.16 and his British; competitor receives $2.31, and ifference of 62 per cent. In some States the wages are still higher. In Pennsylvania for example, a loom fixer receives $2.31; in G. and Britain they receive $3 cents a day, and the lowest wages pald to wear way in this country are paid in New Jersey, where they receive $1, but the difference of children and young people the diffe, ence receives $2.00 per cent. In the case of children and young people the diffe.

Now it is evident that the p toposed changes in the Mills' bill will so reduce the rates of duty that they will not cover the difference in the cost of labor cover the difference in the cost of Jabor in this country and Great Britain. These simple calculations must convince the operatives in the woolen ra ills that they cannot afford to vote for a party that will deprive them of the wages. Under the Mills Bill the workingmen in the woolen mills would receive about 15 per cent. more wages than are paid to their British competitors. In other words, the New York dyer would receive $1.05 instead of $1.16, his present pay. The New York finisher would receive $1 instead of $1.25 The New York loom fixer would receive $1.55 instead of $2.16. The Delaware mule spinner would receive $1.51 instead of $2.21. ware mu $1.01 instead of $2.31.

If the woolen operatives are ready to accept the reductions they will vote with the party that invented the Mills Bill.

THE MISTAKE OF THE REBELS

A Course Which Would Have Surely Made the Confederates Succeed. It is well to keep before the people the frank and candid statements made by Gen. Dick Taylor, one of the ablest men—though far from being one of the ablest generals—in the late rebel army, in an article explaining the defeat of the rebellion. Said he:

"We made two great mistakes. Had we avoided them we should have conquered you. The first was we did not substantially destroy the protective features of the tariff in the winter session of 1857 and 1858, by an act which provided a rapid sliding scale to free trade. . . . We could have passed such a law and held it tight on you till it closed the furnaces, workshops, woolen and cotton mills, and steel and bar iron works of the whole North and West, and stattered your workmen over the prairies and Territories. When the war was ready for you, you would not have been ready for the war. You could not have armed and equipped and put into the field a large army, nor built a large navy. You would have been without supplies, machinery and workmen, and you would have been without money or credit."

An Investigation as to the Effects of Free Trade on Ireland.

Bosson (Mass.), Aug. 20.—H. J. Pettifer, secretary of the Workingman's Association for Defense of British Industry at London, has gone to Ireland to visit the industrial centers and note the condition of the people. He will lay the result of his observations before the American workingmen, the Home Market Club having engaged him to give a series of public addresses under its auspices. He will reach this country about the middle of September and devote a month to speaking in public in most of the large industrial centers in New England and the Middle States, and if possible he will go as far west as Chicago.

del States, and if possible he will go as far west as Chicago.

Mr. Pettifer is not a politician, but a workingman, who is at the head of the English organization to supersede free trade with a protective policy of the American type. He has made a careful study of the condition of the workingmen of Great Britain, and no one is more competent to speak on the subject than he. It was he who wrote the strong protective letter to the Home Market Club last March, of which over 1,600,000 copies have been circulated. This letter was as follows:

To the Secretary of the Home Market over 1.600,000 copies have been circulated. This letter was as follows:

To the Secretary of the Home Market Club, Boston—Dear Sin: Thanks for the papers you have sent me. I was in America for about two months last summer, sent over by our association to see for myself whether the working classes of your country were better off under protection than we are under free trade, and the conclusion I came to was this:

That any person who has to earn a living in America as a producer must first become crazy before he becomes a free-trader, and the farmers must be the craziest of the whole lot to think of such a thing. Before any of your workingmen (either engaged in manufacturing or agriculture) talk about free trade, let them send one of their number over here to see what it is doing for this looking for a job, until his coat gets ragged and his shoes get thin, and he gets the thinriest of all, and everywhere he asks for work he will be told that the Germans and Belgians are doing it cheaper than he can do it, then let them send for him home again and hear what he says about free trade.

If it is surplus revenue that is causing the again and hear what he says about free trade.

If it is surplus revenue that is causing the trouble send it to some free-trade country. You never knew them to have a surplus; or, if you don't like them to do that, take it out to sea and sink it, or bury it, or burn it, or do anything, in fact, rather than adopt free-trade; that is to say, if you do not want foreign competition to ruin your man-facturing industries, and by se doing ruin your farmers by robbing them of their home market. Yours, truly,

H. J. PETTIFER (Electroplate Worker),
Secretary Workman's Association for Defense of British Industry, 184 Waterloo road, London, England, March 28, 1888.

The result of Mr. Pettifer's observations in Ireland will be looked forward to with considerable interest.

Henry George.

[Boston Journal.]

At a "single tax Cleveland and Thurman mass meeting" in New York city Tuesday night. Henry George said:

"I congratulate you on the firm stand that Cleveland has taken, despite the immense pressure brought upon him by small politicians. He has not receded one inch, not one hair's breadth, from the free-trade position of his message. The fight is fully made. To the Democratic party it is a small practical thing, but that small practical thing, but that small practical thing involves the greatest of questions. It is the beginning of the end. Let us elect Grover Cleveland, and we will soon see tariff reform pass on to free trade, and free trade pass on to the fuller freedom which is involved in the single tax." [Cheers.]

Henry George is one of the few honest and candid leaders of the Democratic party. Indeed, his honesty and candor are so pronounced that he is quite unintentionally serving the Democratic party as a danger signal—warning sensible American farmers and
